IF FRANCE WERE VINDICTIVE.

Nations, like individuals, cannot violate the laws of justice and humanity without paying the penalty for their mistake.

The Drevfus case did not end for France with the forcing of a conviction of an innocent man. France has yet to hear from the people of other nations whose sense of right and fairness has been outraged by the verdict.

Since the Dreyfus case came up Americans have lost much of their good opinion of the administration of justice in France. They put themselves to no pains to disguise or repress the modification of their feelings.

But suppose France should answer that for all her imperialism and military despotism she would not try to shoot down a people willing to fight for their liberty without at least giving them an opportunity to be heard or without investigating the merit of their claim to independence

Suppose France should say, in extenuation of her act, that while she has indeed deprived one man of his liberty, for a brief season, because she believed her national peace and honor required the sacrifice, yet she would shrink appalled from an attempt to peremptorily despoil a whole nation of people of their lives, as well as of what they believe to be their right to liberty.

What reply would America make to this?

Supreme Court to Be Asked For Revision of His Case.

DREYFUS! FAMILY FEAR FOR HIM.

His Abnorma' Imperturability and Weak Physical Condition Considered an Ugly Sign - Prisoner Expects Soon to Be Free-Differences of Opinion.

Paris, Sept. 11 .- Today Maitre Demange visited M. Waldeck-Rousseau. the premier, and submitted a number of legal questions arising out of the Drevfus trial.

In response to the application for revision, signed by Dreyfus, the clerk of the courtmartial must send a complete dossier of the trial, including all the documents submitted. A reporter will be appointed to examine it minutely and ascertain whether there be any flaw in the proceedings. The result will be submitted to the court of revision, which will maintain or annul the sen

RENNES, Sept. 11 .- Dreyfus has borne the terrible shock with marvelous fortitude, one might almost say with un-natural calm. Saturday he seemed stupefied when Maitre Labori communicated to him the verdict, but he has since rallied.

Madame Dreyfus and Matthieu Drevfus, his brother, visited him Sunday alternoon, his brother subsequently leaving for Paris. The application to the court of revision was taken to him by Maitre Labori's assistant and he signed it.

The meeting with his wife was naturally very affecting, but both held up as well as possible. He said to her: "I am not uneasy regarding myself, as I shall soon be free, but I think of you and my poor children. They will be oranded as the children of a taitor.

He is convinced that the ten years imprisonment to which he is sentenced will be wiped out by the five years of solitary seclusion he has undergone on Devil's island, and he expects to be re-leased by Oct. 15, which will be five cars from the date of his former con-lemnation. He is so sanguine that he has made an extraordinary request of his wife for a novel to read in the meanime, explaining that his mind is so shaken and weighed down by recent events that he needs to divert his thoughts and to try to get all the recolections of the last three months out of his mind. He thinks that reading a novel will afford the desired mental repose and keep him from brooding.

The correspondent of the Associated Press called upon Mme. Dreyfus after her visit to her husband, and saw her father, M. Hadamard, who said his daughter was bearing up wonderfully well, considering the circumstances, but desired to remain undisturbed in view of the emotional strain of the in-Dreytus and the family were hopeful and looked forward to some favorable development.

"The verdict," he said, "is an inlamy. Captain Dreyfus is in poor heath, as everyone knows. He has been extremely ill from the moment of his arrival in France and has been put on a special regime. His health has not improved, and the nervous effect of yes terday's (Saturday's) terrible blow is bound to react on his general condition. His suppression of all outward emotion s due to his amost incredible force of will, but it does not imply that he is insensible to the mental and physical tor-ture he has undergone. On the conwhile another started on its way to Lake Superior. In the two there were over 200 of the largest craft under the passivity an ugly sign and fear for him

> The town Sunday has been perfectly calm. There has not been a sign of a demonstration nor a cry for or against Dreytus or the Jews heard anywhere, A number of people gathered to see Madame Dreyfus visit the prison, but they were quite respectful. Saturday gave the center of Rennes the appearance of a military camp, and almost completely vanished Sunday.

There are hardly any gendarines in sight except near the Dreyfus residence, where a few are posted. In spite o the troops there was some rioting Sat orday by anti-Deryfusards. So far as can be ascertained military men are satisfied with the verdict, which they interpret as safeguarding the honor of the army and at the same time doing an act of mercy to Dreyfus, who, they say, has sufficiently expiated his crime in the awful existence he passed on Devil's island. They point out that even if he is sent to Fort Corte it will be to receive henceforth the hn.

mane treatment he has experienced since his return to France. There was a general impression that he will be pardoned in a few days by President Loubet, who will find some ground to exercise clemency.

Maitre Demange thinks the five years will count for nothing, and that Dreyfus, according to law, will have to suffer ten years' detention. Many others, however, including several lawyers, hold a contrary opinion and declare that he will be released in October. this, as already cabled, is the belief of Dreyfus himself. M. Coupois, the clerk of the courtmartial, was most emphatic in declaring that Drevius must serve ten years from date of a fresh degradation, the courtmartal having considered the case as beginning when Dreyfus appeared before them, disregarding alto gether his previous sentence. He doubted whether Dreyfus would be actually put through the act of degra-

Maitre Demange sank back in his chair and tears trickled down his cheeks, and Maitre Labori turned white as a sheet, while all around the court-room men looked at each other in

As the audience left the courtroom fully 10 or 15 men were crying openly, and the majority of those present walked quietly down the street for hore than a block without speaking a ord. It was like a funeral procession. Meanwhile a tragedy was being en-acted in the little room off the courtroom, where Drevfus listened to the reading of the verdict. He had been ### told the result by his lawyers, and had constitution but when in the pressure wept bitterly, but when in the presence of the officials of the courtmartial he listened impassively to the sentence. His wife, who was waiting in torture and suspense at her house, bore the news bravely.

Mathieu Dreyfus was not present in court Saturday, but visited his brother after the verdict had been rendered. He found him perfectly calm and with out any manifestation of surprise at the finding of the court. The prisoner simply shrugged his shoulders, uttering an expressive "bah!" adding as he em-braced his brother as the latter was pre-

GERMAN PEOPLE STUPEFIED.

They and Their Newspapers Conside the Drevfus Verdlet an Act of Moral Cowardice. Berlin, Sept. 11.-The Dreyfus ver dict caused a feeling almost of stupe faction in Berlin. It had been hoped that the statement of the Reichsauzeiger, as emanating directly from Emperor William, would have rendered impossible the repetition of what is described as "one of the greatest judicial and political crimes of the age. It was universally agreed that the second verdict was a grave political blunder, a violation of the laws of civilization, and an act of moral cowardice which the world will find it difficult to pardon. The German press unanimously de scribe the verdict as cowardly and im politic, not to say criminal. The Cologne Gazette said:

"It is a cowardly verdict, in the barbarous spirit of the middle ages. By this crime the judges have imposed a line of debarkation between France and the rest of the world, which although it will not prevent diplomatic intercourse or stay the common ex-change of products, will, according to all the notions of right, justice, honor tolerance and ethics which the civil ized world bears with it in the twee tieth century, form a barrier only to be removen by time and laborious effort."

The other leading journals commented upon the verdict in similar strains. Received Letter From Mrs. Drevius. ATLANTA, Sept. 11.-Mrs. David Eich berg of this city, who recently started a movement to raise a fund among American Jews for the purpose of pre-senting a handsome sword to Captain Alfred Dreyfus, received a letter from Madame Dreyfus, in which she said the at the bedside. captain could not accept a sword from the American people.

Stoned Jacques Dreyfus' House, Paris, Sept. 11.—Slight disturbances occurred at Marseilles and Belfort after the verdict of the Dreyfus courtmartial was published. The demonstrators stoned the residence of Jacques Drey-tus, brother of the condemned, fat Belfort, breaking the windows and otherwise damaging the structure. Many
